Gold Membership

Investing in health & safety

ANNUAL INVESTMENT COMMITMENT:

$5,500 INC GST

As a Gold member of the AIHS, your company is recognised as working with us to invest in workplace health and safety in Australia. The funds you invest contribute to our operational activities across a range of critical areas.

In return, we invest in you.

Gold Member Benefits are extensive, and include:

1. Branding and Promotion

- » You can use of the AIHS Corporate Member logo on your organisational stationery and signage
- » Your company logo and name is placed on the AIHS website Home page and Corporate Members page as well as our Annual report
- » Promotion of service and/or product offers by your company which are offered at beneficial rates to members*
- » Inclusion as Gold member in Organisational Listing in each OHS Professional magazine (our Flagship Publication)

- » Ability to feature AIHS eNews articles on your organisation's website (with AIHS credit displayed)
- » One organisational profiling article in the AIHS eNews
- » 50% discount for placement of up to 3 advertising tiles within the AIHS eNews
- » One feature article within OHS Professional magazine (subject to editorial approval)*

2. Information Services

Seven organisational contact people, (over and above any of your staff that are individual members), to receive all AIHS publications and communications. This includes OHS Professional magazine (hard copy, quarterly) and the AIHS eNews (fortnightly).

3. Other Staff Benefits

- » Access for 5 staff members to AIHS events at the member rates
- » Priority Assistance for staff seeking AIHS Membership and Certification
- » Individual General membership discount of 15% for your employees upon joining

4. Sponsorship

Priority sponsorship opportunities for AIHS events, projects, programs and activities and any mutual Corporate Partnership arrangements. For set sponsorship categories at conferences etc, this includes sponsor benefits provided at 15% discount rates.

5. Professional Development

Annual co-branded event opportunities with AIHS to develop and present targeted training/master class etc., at member selected venue.

6. Leadership Engagement

Executive level engagement between AIHS leadership and one of your organisation's leadership representatives, to engage in strategic discussion around workplace health and safety, and opportunities for partnerships.

* Corporate Member product promotion:

The AIHS retains the right to promote member products at its full discretion. Corporate membership does not guarantee product promotion for corporate members. Factors considered by the AIHS in determining whether a corporate member product is promoted include but are not limited to:

- » whether the product is considered by the AIHS to be of a standard acceptable to the profession;
- » whether the product offer is considered by the AIHS to be adequately beneficial to members; or
- » any other reason the AIHS determines from time to time.

* Feature article within OHS Professional Magazine:

Our national (hard-copy and electronic copy) OHS Professional Magazine features articles on a variety of subjects, and is driven by an editorial focus on what is current and important. When planned feature articles relate to the specialty work of our Gold members, we seek out quotes and references to include them and their work in these feature articles.

Product promotions may contain disclaimers.

If membership is sought for purposes which include product promotion, it is important that prior to committing to your membership, you clarify whether your product/service may meet these standards.

Code of Ethics

This Code specifies standards of ethical conduct for professional members of the AIHS. It places obligations on them to practice and work in an objective manner; follow recognised OHS principles as specified in the relevant federal or state/territory legislation; and realise the lives, health and welfare of individuals may be dependent upon their judgement.

It may be referred to by the AIHS when dealing with complaints about work or conduct of professional members.

Nothing in the Code will require professional members of the AIHS to contravene any obligations under any relevant occupational health and safety legislation or other relevant legislation, regulations and codes.

Professional members will act in accordance with the following requirements:

1.1 Responsibility

Act and work responsibly and competently at all times to improve health and safety in workplaces and ensure they do no harm.

Give priority to the health, safety and welfare of employees, employers and other workplace health and safety stakeholders in accordance with accepted standards of moral and legal behaviour during the performance of their duties.

Ensure the health, safety and welfare of employees, employers and other workplace health and safety stakeholders takes precedence over the professional member's responsibility to sectional or private interests.

Ensure work by people under their direction is competently performed and honestly and reliably reported.

Ensure they do not engage in any illegal or improper practices.

1.2 Integrity, honesty, objectivity, impartiality

Perform their work and duties with integrity, honesty and equity while adhering to legal principles.

Provide advice, express opinions or make statements in an honest, objective, impartial and efficient way and consider the reasonably foreseeable consequences of that advice.

1.3 Areas of competence

Perform work only in their areas of competence and within the limits of their abilities. Make public statements claiming professional knowledge in an area of public interest only if competent to do so, and only if such statements are consistent with other parts of the Code and Service Standards.

1.4 Conflict of interest

Avoid real or apparent conflicts of interest. Disclose promptly and effectively all significant financial and other relevant interests with potential for providing conflict of interest or influencing the impartiality of any reports, advice or decisions.

1.5 Confidentiality

Respect the confidentiality of the information obtained in the course of their work and only reveal such information to others with the consent of the person(s) or organisation(s) or their legal representative(s).

1.6 Disclosure and whistleblowing

A professional member of the AIHS may become aware of an organisation breaching OHS legislation or standards resulting in a risk of injury or disease. How the professional member responds to this situation will be determined by the nature of the relationship (if any) the professional member has with the organisation.

Initially, the professional member should discuss the problem with management at the highest level and point out the problem, potential consequences, and professional member's ethical (and perhaps legal) responsibilities.

If there is no action on the part of the organisation and the only way of reducing the risk is to disclose their knowledge of the risk to a third party, the professional member should do so. Before doing so, the professional member should seek advice from senior colleagues, the AIHS or other relevant parties, and should inform management of the organisation of his/her actions.

In the case where the organisation is a public body, the professional member may be protected by relevant federal or state/territory legislation, eg. the Victorian Whistleblowers Protection Act 2001.

1.7 Maintaining the standing and reputation of professional members of the AIHS

Conduct their affairs so as to promote and improve the practice of professional members.

Actively assist and generally encourage the continuing development of professional members; the OHS professions and OHS associations; and where appropriate, specific areas and disciplines of OHS practice.

I hereby undertake that I have read and clearly understand the Australian Institute of Health & Safety's Code of Ethics.
