

Introduction to OHS Professional Knowledge Assessment

NOTE: This document should be read in concert with the online information about Australian OHS professional certification at: <https://www.sia.org.au/certification>

Background

As part of the SIA's OHS Certification Program, we have recognised that some people working in the OHS/WHS sector have very strong work experience at the OHS Professional level, but only some of the education required to be eligible to undertake the certification capability assessment.

If you fall into this category, Certification at Professional level is still open to you. We recognise that many health and safety people acquired their education in a different environment to that which exists today. We provide these people a fair opportunity to access the certification program, while at the same time maintaining the integrity of the program, by having a suitably rigorous process for people to undertake. This process is called the OHS Professional Knowledge Assessment.

The Knowledge Assessment is a part of the assessment for Certified OHS Professional. Upon successful completion of Knowledge Assessment, applicants will then need to complete the detailed Practice Report and our qualified Demonstrated Capability Assessors will conduct phone interviews with Applicants' nominated referees to complete demonstrated capability assessment. For more details about Practice Report and Certification requirement, please check on our website here.

We are also examining alternative assessment processes for other certification levels as well.

What does the Professional Knowledge Assessment involve?

The University of Newcastle has been retained to deliver the assessment via distance learning – a three-part assessment involving:

- (a) A two hour multiple choice online exam;
- (b) The conduct of a case study where the candidate has 4-5 weeks to complete the work; and
- (c) The conduct of a 1 hour face-to-face online VIVA interview conducted via Zoom.

The content is articulated against the Body of Knowledge at AQF 7 level.

This is an academic exercise reflecting your ability to demonstrate knowledge. It does not assess your ability to do your job. It carries the standard requirements of academic exercises such case studies and exams consistent with any AQF 7 process in any field, and is marked in the same way. Whilst it is not a replacement for the completion of OHS higher education, it is delivered in a way which involves assessment of the candidate's capability to understand the Body of Knowledge conceptual frameworks at AQF 7, and translate these through the exam and case study, as well as the interview.

1. The online exam:

The online exam is articulated at AQF7 level. Candidates have a limited time to complete it, and are marked to meet a minimum requirement.

2. The case study:

Our experience thus far, is that some candidates – particularly those who do not have significant experience in the completion of University assignments – can struggle with this by not following the instructions. It is critical to note the following:

The case study involves the writing of a report in regard to a case study scenario involving a workplace incident. A legal report is not required. A management report is not required. This is an academic exercise within normal university-based requirements. There are very specific assessment criteria and candidates are advised of those. These should be followed or marks will be lost. You will not be marked up for providing additional information. There is a word/page limit on the case study, and one of the challenges of this component is addressing the assessment criteria within the limits provided.

3. The interview:

The Viva interview involves ‘defending’ the result of your test and case study, and in the process confirming it was you who undertook both. The assessors will have possibly identified gaps in the exam and case study, and may ask you to elaborate on those issues. It is critical that you have your case study report with you to refer to.

On completion of the exam, case study, and interview, candidates will have been expected to meet a minimum standard in all areas assessed and if successful are marked to a pass level. If a candidate fails to meet the minimum standard in any area, they will fail the Knowledge Assessment.

Who is eligible for the Professional Knowledge Assessment?

The following people may apply for the Professional Knowledge Assessment:

- People who are currently Certified OHS Practitioner/have met the requirements of Certified OHS Practitioner, but in addition have five years working at OHS professional level;
- People who have five years working at OHS professional level with Diploma of WHS/some education units at AQF 7 (bachelor degree) or AQF 8 (post graduate), but not enough units or content to automatically qualify for Certified OHS Professional.

For clarification between practitioner and professional roles, please see OHS Global Framework for Practice here. It is important for you to note that if you wish to be certified at OHS professional level, your work experience must be deemed to be at that level for the specified amount of time.

When will the Professional Knowledge Assessment be held?

The SIA, in collaboration with the University of Newcastle, will be conducting the next Knowledge Assessment between the months through April to May 2019.

The due dates of the 3 components involved in the assessment are as follows;

- Online Exam (From 8am on Fri 12 Apr to 8pm on Sat 13 Apr 2019 (36hr access period during which to complete the 2hr online exam))
- Written Assignment (Due Fri 10 May 2019 at midnight AEST)
- VIVA Assessment (A 1hr face-to-face assessment to be scheduled during the week of Mon 20 May 2019)

What is the cost of the Professional Knowledge Assessment?

The cost of the Knowledge Assessment is $850 plus GST. Fees are Not refundable to people who fail as we have ALREADY absorbed some of the actual cost of the assessment to make it as affordable as possible, delivering it at less than what it costs us.

Admin fee will be charged by the university directly when you withdraw your enrolment after Mon 1 Apr 2019.

How do I express my interest for the Professional Knowledge Assessment?

If you are interested in undertaking the assessment as an alternative pathway to professional certification, please e-mail Tanny Lu at certification@sia.org.au and provide the following details:

- Updated CV
- Academic Transcript of OHS or relevant qualifications
- A certified copy of your ID (Driver's license or Passport)

What happens if I fail?

If a candidate initially fails the Professional Knowledge Assessment, this is not the end of the certification application process. Written feedback is provided by the University to the SIA, and we will engage with you in a review of the process, after which we will determine next steps. Various options are available to the candidate and the SIA and could include but are not limited to:

- Repeating partial or the assessment process in whole (this requires further payment) ; and/or
- Entering into a mentoring process as part of CPD; or
- Formal advice that the process was unsuccessful.

Preparation

The Professional Knowledge Assessment is an important investment, both by you, and by the SIA in that we subsidise the process. As a result it is critical that applicants give themselves the best chance to be successful by adequately preparing. Refunds are not provided to people who fail.

We welcome your application, but also want you to succeed if you do apply.

Please make sure that you read through all of the information included in the information pack before deciding to go ahead.

If I pass the Professional Knowledge Assessment, am I certified?

Not yet. You must also pass the capability assessment, which involves completion of practice reports and referee interviews.

Some suggestions for preparation:

- Study the Body of Knowledge www.ohsbok.org.au. The exam is articulated against the Body of Knowledge at Graduate standard in OHS subject matter.
- Thoroughly read through the general orientation materials which the University of Newcastle will provide to each applicant.
- Be aware of the technological requirements & ensure accessibility.
- When they are provided, study the assessment criteria for the case study very closely, and before you complete your case study, check that you have addressed them. If you do not, you may fail.
